Highly toxic water seeping from damaged nuclear reactor

TOXIC—Highly contaminated water is seeping from a damaged reactor at the crippled Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Station in Japan and may soon leak into the ocean, the country's nuclear regulator warned on Monday.

The disaster raises the danger of further radiation leaks as the nuclear power plant and the power's further setback to efforts to contain the nuclear contamination, which is now being monitored by the government in increasingly hazardous conditions.

Engineers have been having to control the reactor Fukushima Daiichi.

Their allegations of massive corruption in the Armed Forces of the Philippines at congressional hearings covered live by the broadcast media have turned the military into the most corrupt government agency in the eyes of the public, results of the latest survey by Pulse Asia show.

The Philippine National Police took second in the AFP among the agencies considered the most corrupt (see table on Page A6).

The AFP dominated the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH), long considered the flagship of corruption. Pulse Asia said previously.

Pulse Asia said 60 percent of adult Filipinos considered the military the most corrupt government agency, up from just 45 percent in February 2010.

The survey, conducted from Feb. 24 to March 5, covered 1,200 representative adults. It had a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Gen. Eduardo Oban Jr., the AFP chief of staff, said he saw the survey results as a challenge for him to

Ping recounts life on the run; Leila unamused

By Christine N. Esguerra and Nikko Diaz

HE ALWAYS kept his head down, ignored people who praised him and lived on his "immense courage" to avoid capture. And he always made sure he was several steps ahead of his pursuers.

That was how him, Paulito "Ping" Lacson—a fugitive for more than a year—survived, yesterday the justice bar for the 100th while living the life of a man-on-the-run.

And he kept telling him his place as justice, he said.

LIFE ON THE RUN Sen. Paulito Lacson lives the media in the Manila after more than one year as a fugitive from the law. But his responsiveness to his supporters in the House of Representatives Against Crime and Corruption was published in the Court of Appeals on Monday.

By Christine N. Esguerra

RACE IN the spotlight after being in the shadows for over a year, Sen. Paulito "Ping" Lacson yesterday portrayed himself as a "fugitive from justice" and denied he had betrayed out a deal with the Aquino administration as he could return home.

In a press conference two days after he flew home, Lacson was greeted with his government against the administration, saying that as one point in his life, as a fugitive he felt he could not handle to obtain justice even under the present government.

Lacson, who threw his support behind President Aquino in last year's presidential election, lamented that the improved justice relationship between him and the new leadership was only "in the beginning."

Antonio Trillanes said a packed house from him, Paulito "Ping" Lacson could still face the public after displaying a "blatant disrespect of the rule of law" when he went into hiding to evade a warrant of arrest issued by the Manila Regional Trial Court as an accused in the Davao Confite death-investigation case.

members of the group called outside the Court of Appeals to prevent the dismissal of the charges against Lacson for transgression.

Kin offer tsunami of prayers to stay execution of 3 Pinoys

By Jerry E. Espinosa

RELATIVES and sympathizers of three Filipino citizens scheduled to be executed on Wednesday by the Chinese government for heroin smuggling in Shenzhen City are offering a tsunami of prayers through their own agency.

The late of Rolly Villamor, 31, Ellenbeth Bernal, 36, and Kenneth Cando, 32, has been ordered after China toward down the Philippine government's final plea for an release—perhaps permanent—any of them.

Plans will be extensively held across the country for the three Filipino and for the Chinese government to allow them to return. R. Edwin Garcia, executive secretary of the National Commission for Human Rights, said he would lead the delegation to China.

The commission is under the Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines.

Workers find skeletons at former war site

Further investigation indicated the site was a Japanese garden during World War II and the skeletons found before the excavated defense facilities were victims of war's police said today.

A forensic investigation was being carried out to determine the nationality of the victims, although they are believed to be Filipinos, police said.

The Philippines came under Japanese military control in 1942 during World War II. The three-year occupation period is considered one of the darkest times for the country.

Thousands of Filipinos and American soldiers died during the occupa-

Remove Blemishes And Dark Spots:

Look Younger With Clear, Even Skin

Clear skin with ClearGlyce-C

There is no question that effectively clear skin is more equated with youth. If so, how? What can our skin look like years ago, we tell you. Gladly come up with a picture of skin that is clear, soft and smooth. You want. Right?

The reason for this is that youthful skin is composed mostly of new skin. According to dermatologists, baby skin is what fresh, new skin looks like — the DNA/UVB damage, the wrinkles or lines, spots from the sun. Children, especially babies, have relatively soft skin with a low, unblemished complexion. More experts claim that the layer of baby skin, which ages from 18 to 20, also contributes to the softness, as well as the rich amount of collagen in their skin.

Numerous factors continually affect the skin as it matures, bringing from childhood into youth to an age when skin is exposed to various elements, it may acquire blemishes. Dark spots, acne scars and other forms of pigmentation are examples of some imperfections the skin may experience as a result of aging.

In order to recapture the youthful look of a clear, unblemished and even complexion, Facial Care Centers offer technologically advanced treatments that can now effectively remove unwanted blemishes, dark spots and other skin imperfections that make the skin look older.

The ClearGlyce-C is a non-invasive treatment that acts to diminish skin-colored spots to reduce the skin. The combined peeling action of the chemical strips and the clearing action of a vacuum gently removes dead cells in the deepest layer of the skin. The ClearGlyce-C can help remove fine lines around the eyes, forehead, corners of the lips and other areas of the face, as well as acne scars, age spots, hyperpigmentation, marks caused by sun damage and other imperfections.

In order to lighten dark, dull skin, there is ClearGlyce-C, a whitening breakthrough that makes use of the potent powers of Vitamin C to remove the darkening of the skin without leaving redness or gross side-effects. It can even dull, blemish, skin, pigmentation and other dark spots and discolorations. ClearGlyce-C also contains Vitamin A, C and E, which regulate the skin's natural pH level, prevents irritation, dryness and over-sensitive reactions.

To completely even out the skin complexion, the Collagen Whitening Mask is a highly recommended solution. It delivers the benefits of Kojic acid, which is known for its whitening effect. The Collagen Whitening Mask effectively even out the skin. It can inhibit the formation of melanin, as well as reduce existing melanin in the skin. The collagen in the mask deeply moisturizes the skin to visibly reduce lines and wrinkles, making the skin firm but still soft, not dull and dry.

The look and feel of young, flawless skin can only be achieved. Call Facial Care Centers today at 800-848-7544, 7544, 7544 or 212-761-1111 and Pamper — 904-444 for your free consultation.

When we started, the place was so desolate, barren, and malaria-infested

You should see it now. (and so should the gang of noisy do-gooders)

In 1966, going to Barrio Rio Tuba was like living an Indiana Jones adventure. To reach the place that nobody cared or dared to visit, you first had to endure 10 hours of a bumpy, dusty bus ride from Zamboanga to Princessa to Brooke's Point on the east coast of south Palawan. Then you had to spend the night there.

From there you only had one choice of transportation: a pump boat. On a good day, the exhilarating sea journey to Barrio Rio Tuba took five hours. On a bad day, you just braved the rough seas and hoped reaching the future. And when you finally got to Barrio Rio Tuba, you were greeted by an undeveloped, barren site.

For all the biodiversity associated with Palawan, this particular spot was sadly unproductive land because of the largely infertile nature of the soil, an unyielding host to meaningful agricultural produce.

But, what nature has made agriculturally inhospitable it compensated by providing minerals instead. Minerals, it is noted, that is indispensable in our lives in this modern world.

Turning an isolated, undeveloped and barren area like Rio Tuba into productive use, though, is not an easy task.

You need vision, guts, perseverance over many years, a great deal of know-how and tremendous financial resources.

The rewards of responsible mining

Tubay, 47 years later, Rio Tuba, located in the municipality of Sablayan, is a thriving town propelled by the mining community. Thanks to the presence of Rio Tuba Nickel Mining Corporation (RTNMC) operations, in 2009, ranked as 4th in total assets, 4th in net income, 2nd in net income and 2nd in cash ending balance among the 20 municipalities in Palawan.

This newfound financial windfall has given its growing number of residents access to electricity, public water (in contrast, 275 municipalities in the country have no access to publicly extended efficient garbage disposal), healthcare is now a first class municipality.

We now employ more than 3,000 employees and contractors.

In 2013 alone, the combined Rio Tuba operations behind P24.6 Million for community assistance and livelihood projects under the RTNMC-managed Social Development Management Plans (SDMPs). But there is more.

Samuel Kaligaya and Rio Tuba Mining Corporation: Together we bring free housing to the people

When we first started operations in our mining area, the indigenous people from the surrounding areas lived in squalor and illness that had torn.

Today, in partnership with General Kaligaya and his family, Antonio Mdelon, we have given the indigenous people free housing to improve their quality of life. 79 houses have already been built. 50 more are in under construction.

We have already spent P29 Million for this, and there will be more to come. More than just a comfortable and sturdy structure, the General Kaligaya-RTNMC partnership has given the recipients a renewed spirit, a renewed confidence to raise their skills and act as a community and to share the joy of a town rising from poverty.

Together with Fr. Jerome Mangrup, SVD, and Arnold James Catholic Mission Foundation we bring Alternative Learning System to indigenous residents

Fr. Jerome Mangrup, SVD, is one of the country's leading educators. In partnership with Fr. Mangrup and Arnold James Catholic Mission Foundation, we provide support for the Indigenous Learning Center in Rio Tuba. We set up the first school in Rio Tuba to give the indigenous people access to alternative formal education. The program provides a viable alternative to the existing formal education system, encompassing both the non-formal and informal systems of knowledge and skills. 474 students were enrolled in 2012 and as of P2.6 Million that year. Forty-five years ago, before we started developing Rio Tuba, there was no educational concept, no school program whatsoever provided for the indigenous people.

We bring free elementary and high school education to Rio Tuba

We believe in the importance of education in the future of this country. More importantly, we believe that whenever education results in this isolated place should be competitive with the best schools available in the capital cities.

That's why we partnered with the La Salle Brothers to share their system of education in the elementary and high schools we have established. 1,230 students were enrolled in 2013.

More than 85% of them were from adjoining barrios and were non-dependents of our employees. Operating the schools cost us P26.8 Million in 2012 and we will continue to fund it.

Healthcare in the hinterlands

We have provided a hospital to take care of the healthcare of the community.

In 2010, 2,740 patients were admitted.

An additional 45,500 were treated as outpatients. Operating the hospital cost us P60.5 Million in 2010, and we will continue to fund it.

An Agriculture Research Center. Because we want the land to be productive.

Since 1966, there have been advances in agriculture.

Some unproductive land can now be tilled to give farmers new profits.

Productive land can be made more productive.

We constantly provide the latest farming methods, we brought to Rio Tuba one of the best technicians in the country, Dr. Silvestre Rabes, holder of a PhD in Forestry. Already he has made it possible for the farmers to increase their food production with the introduction of new and improved farming knowledge.

Additionally, RTNMC has donated more than three hundred heads of imported cattle to make Rio Tuba self-sufficient in their livestock needs.

Immense fruit bearing has also been introduced by RTNMC.

Responsible Mining: We help build the country

While occupying less than 0.35% (one third of one percent) of the entire Palawan land area, RTNMC has contributed to the national economy by generating more than US$200 Million in exports and paying almost P1.8 Billion in taxes. But more important is our leadership in promoting responsible mining to make the industry an important partner of agriculture in harmonizing the wealth from our land.

"We have to remember that there are only two industries in this world that create real wealth from nature. One is agriculture and the other is mining. All the rest of the industries depend on these two and cannot survive without them. Looking at the very basic, we cannot stop agriculture and mining because they produce the basic building blocks humans need to survive."

Responsible Leadership. Responsible Mining.

4 hurt as panic hits LRT passengers

Commuters break train windows, doors after spotting smoke outside coach

By Joanna I. Andrade and Paula G. Manzano

A PASSENGER who shouted, "May umanak, May umanak" (There's smoke. Something's going to explode!) caused a panic inside a train of the Light Rail Transit (LRT) Line 1 yesterday morning.

In a rush, four people—including two teenage girls—were injured when passengers who wanted to get out of the train broke several glass doors and windows.

Earlier, a technical malfunction caused smoke in the front of the train, which, according to witnesses, caused a panic. Several people then reportedly pushed through the windows and doors just to get out of the coach. The train, however, stopped at the station in the morning.

Caroline Santos, 22, Jorjane Isidro, 22, and Laila Marie Santos, 22, were taken to the LRT Clinic at the Central Station where they received first aid for minor injuries.

The malfunction led to a 10-minute delay in the overhead light with no power restoration.

LRT Authority (LRTA) administrator Raul Rodriguez, meanwhile, apologized for the technical problem which he said was caused by a technical error which was repaired in minutes.

According to a notice on the LRTA website, a technical error in the electrical device which allows an internal device to control the flow of a power supply.

Cause of smoke tracked down

After a thorough checking of all the electrical and internal components of the train, the engineering and maintenance team found out that the smoke was caused by a worn-out electrical cable, Rodriguez said.

He added that they would maintain an inventory system to keep the preventive maintenance of train cars.

Based on reports, a train scheduled with Daily No. 10170 was approaching the Central Station when the smoke was spotted in the train at around 8:45 a.m. when some passengers were smoking during their study break in the train.

"Some of the passengers pulled the emergency button. When the doors did not open right away, they started to breaking the tempered glass doors and windows. Everyone started to get off."

'Ondoy' victim wins 6/45 lotto jackpot prize of P23M

By Tim G. Santos

THE ABOUT A revealed victim, a 57-year-old passenger, began to cry when he lost his home and belongings when Tropical Storm "Ondoy" struck the metropolis in 2009. He won the 6/45 Mega Lotto jackpot prize of P23,140,300.44 in the March 27 draw.

Accompanied by his son, the lucky victim from Calabar, Alcala, arrived yesterday morning to the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO) at the Philippine International Convention Center in Pasay City to receive his prize. According to PCSO communications, the victim had placed a P20 bet on the winning combination of 12 34 18 19 32 34.

"I was thought I and his family lost everything in Ondoy, he said he kept the balls and he always had this feeling that one day he would lose the jackpot. And he did," Reyes said.

He added that the state, who has been unable to restore his family's home, was grateful.

Forced to work abroad

"He said they lost everything and his wife and daughter were forced to work overseas for the family to survive. He said that he was, he said he would not let his family come back home," Reyes said.

Syria says armed gangs to blame for slays, tries to ease deep crisis (AP)—The Syrian government said on Tuesday it was a grave political crisis on Tuesday by blaming armed gangs for killing 23 people in the northwestern port city of Latakia in previous days and promising to take measures to ensure that those who allow the government to be armed and detain people without charges.

Despite an announcement that the government, including Assad, would allow the nation back into the light, he stayed out of sight, as he has during most days of a week of chaos that is threatening to tear 22 million Syrians apart and could lead to the country's total collapse.

The capital, Damascus, was quiet during the day, offering a stark contrast to a time of intense violence. It appeared as if the city was in a state of calm, with no signs of the violence that was taking place elsewhere.

The capital, Damascus, was quiet during the day, offering a stark contrast to a time of intense violence. It appeared as if the city was in a state of calm, with no signs of the violence that was taking place elsewhere.

There was also confusion over what, if anything, the government was planning regarding the emergency law. A government official told reporters in Damascus that it would soon be reported, but the official did not explain when it would mean to remove the emergency law in places where it was not needed.

"What will change is nothing," said Bashar Assad, a Syrian human rights activist and legal expert teaching at George Washington University.

What was certain was that the crisis was far from resolved by Assad's speech.

The city of Latakia was under fire by artillery and snipers and the military was also under attack. The city's Latakia was under fire by artillery and snipers and the military was also under attack.

Latakia is one of the few places in the country that has no Assad supporters. It is the home of key leaders in the opposition and the government, including the vice president, Fawzi al-Qasbi.

Details of the recent, as well as the deaths, are uncertain, because the govern-

Folk remedies for colic do not work, review says

By Lindsay Turner

(CBS/AP)—The many crying of babies with colic has been a source of worry to parents for centuries. Unfortunately, there is no good evidence that work, according to a review of studies.

The review, which was published in the journal Archives of Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine, found that none of the studies reviewed showed that any of the remedies worked.

Libyan rebels push towards Tripoli

Announce they are producing 100,000 to 130,000 barrels of oil a day

SRIF, Libya—Sneaky was preceded by coalition jets on Monday as rebels closed in on Moammar Gadhafi's hometown in their westward push towards Tripoli and Nato took command of military operations in Libya.

The NATO operation said one powerful explosion early Monday night blew 200 kilometers out of Tripoli, as weapons flew overhead and the coalition operation to retake Libya's coast in Libya extended its reach.

The explosion followed two had Moammar's family members killed by rebel soldiers on an oil field in northern Libya.

New in the last report of presidential infighting as they push towards the capital from their current location Benghazi.

The rebels' pursuit of Gadhafi's sons and their sons back control of key oil towns has been and given as far as Sabha with few fresh to rebel again 100 km farther along the coast, a rebel major has the message.

Nato takes command

New military took full command of military operations in Libya from a United States-led coalition on Sunday, enabling the alliance to strike at Gadhafi's forces should they threaten civilians.

Alliance officials confirmed, however, that the coalition of members would take 40 to 70 days.

Presided by Western powers, including the US and Italy, to take the helm as quickly as possible, the alliance approved the mission on Sunday, enabling France and British forces.

"Our goal is to protect civilians and civilian populations as we order them of attack from the Gadhafi regime," said NATO Secretary General Anders Fogh Rasmussen.

SRIF, Libya—An anti-aircraft gun near the rebel railway in the desert in Libya on March 17. The rebels pushed west on Sunday to recapture more territory dominated by Gadhafi's military forces.

Rasmussen. "We will implement all aspects of the United Nations resolutions. Nothing more, nothing less," he said.

The national transition committee in Tripoli also came under attack by what some observers called "the rebel alliance," known as the UN President Barack Obama's planned to withdraw from Libya.

Witnesses in the capital said the rebels targeted the road to the airport 10 km outside the city, as well as the air base in Benghazi and its nearby military.

Oil exports in a week

The rebels promised the fighting would not further hamper oil production, in some order their control, and the opposition plan to begin exporting oil in less than a week, a rebel spokesman said.

"We are producing about 100,000 to 120,000 barrels a day, we can easily go up to about 300,000 a day," said the spokesman, who said the rebels represent the responsibility for restoring the oil and oil, and a new oil company.

The rebels, on the verge of taking back Benghazi stronghold, have the air strikes began on March 18, on Sunday night, and the rebels said they had 100 and 200 km in the west.

Gadhafi's rebels roared

Spurred on by the air strikes, the rebels roared from the south, of 100 km past Benghazi to back the last round of Gadhafi's forces.

Adnan, while on a tour of the capital of Tripoli, said he had seen the rebels' forces in the desert.

"Gadhafi's forces are now moving fast," Mohamed bin al-Khatib, a 42-year-old rebel fighter, said. "We have taken the city of Sirte, which is a very important city in the desert."

WHY HAIRLOSS IS A NIGHTMARE

HAIRLOSS is one of the most dreaded turning points in a man's life.

From sporting a full head of hair to suffering from a receding hairline, thinning hair or baldness. It can happen as early as the puberty stage or as late as beyond 40s. The onset of thinning hair or receding hairline is when men start to look older, become less attractive or simply appear dull or boring. Experts agree that hairloss brings huge physical impact to men but what makes it more distressing is its psychological effect.

For Joey Marquez, losing hair is like losing his potency and vigor. "The first sign to impress a woman is the appearance. Hair is part of it. How can I make points when women called me hairy because of my hairloss? I tried not to let it bother me, but the truth was it did," he says. Lack of self-confidence, insecurity and low self-esteem are just some of the psychological effects of hairloss. For more than a decade, Mark Ed suffered from hairloss. "I married a man with fuller hair. When my bald spot, I didn't want to look myself on TV. One time critic commented that my acting was always superb, but I needed to do something about my hair problem," he recalls.

Genetics, stress, poor nutrition, certain medications or diseases – these are the most common causes of hairloss in men. Alan Gade has had to escape from hairloss. It runs in his family. "When my hair thinned out, I noticed my teeth were of my parents' age."

have hairloss history. And yes, hairloss made the feel self-conscious," he shares. Joey, Mark and Alan are just three among the many millions who have hairloss stories. But unlike other men, these three had a happy and successful ending. They found hairloss with professional help – only with Reveals, the leading hairloss and scalp center in the Philippines. It offers technologically advanced treatments for restoring hairloss or taking and restoring hair problems like Joey's and Alan's. For advanced hairloss like Mark's problem, Transcendental Cranial Revascularization (TCR) is perfect for you. Joey says: "After 10 years of treatments, I started to see my hair becoming thicker. Hairline is just three weeks. There, no more receding hairline for me. I look 10 years younger!" Mark says: "Surgeons TCR made my hair restoration possible. It's non-surgical and undetectable even to the probing touch. It's like my hair fell flat. I always forget that I was once bald." Alan says: "I didn't have confidence in over-the-counter products. There might be adverse side effects. But I sought professional help at Reveals. I'm happy with the results. My colleagues say, 'Good, my hair is up before me!'"

Taliban kidnap dozens; bomber kills 13 people

KABUL, Afghanistan—Taliban kidnaped 40 men and women in the northwestern province of Kunduz, Afghan officials said. In a suicide bombing killed 13 people and wounded 10 others in the eastern province of Paktia on Sunday, according to initial police reports, although the toll may still rise.

The Taliban quickly claimed credit for both operations. In the kidnapping, they accused that they had captured 10 police officers, two Gen. Shams-ud-Din, Taliban, the provincial governor, and a police officer. The men were taken, and the group was made up of "youths" who wanted to become police officers but had not yet been accepted.

The men were passing through Kunduz after having been carried away from a police training center in the Shomali district in Kunduz, where they had tried to arrest but had been told there was no case, the general said.

"We told them, we will send them back because all of you are not safe," he said. "We did not want to send them to the east of the administrative centers of the Taliban region. We want to send them to the east of the administrative centers of the Taliban region. We want to send them to the east of the administrative centers of the Taliban region."

Taliban said the men were in civilian clothes and were arrested in Kunduz in the Chagha Darra district in the western part of the province where they were stopped by Taliban forces.

Taliban fighters, a Taliban spokesman, issued a statement that the captured men had documents, including evidence of police academy graduation certificates, showing they were police officers.

Vietnam, Singapore, Thailand top Asean survey

By Dean L. Loo

THE ASEAN region has become a more attractive destination for foreign investments and trade in the aftermath of the global economic crisis due to its potential as a market for goods and services, according to a survey commissioned by the 10-member body.

At the same time, however, the survey showed that the Philippines remained one of the least preferred investment destinations for foreign investors in the region over the medium term due to perceived instabilities of the local market in terms of growth potential.

According to the survey commission by the Asian Business Advisory Council (Asiac ABC), the Philippines ranked 10th in terms of investment performance—about only of 10th—in its 10-member survey with Thailand leading the pack as the most preferred destination for foreign investors over the next three years.

The survey was followed by Singapore, Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia, Laos, Myanmar and Cambodia, in that order.

At least 85 percent of the survey's respondents said that they have plans of expanding to at least one Asian country over the next three years.

The survey was conducted recently by the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy at the National University of Singapore and covered 355 business respondents from across the region, but predominantly from Singapore and Thailand.

About 67 percent of the respondents pointed the uncertainty due to the growth potential of their local markets, followed by the greater threat of their main clients as major reasons for not doing business in the region.

On the whole, however, prospects for the region looked very bright for the competition led by China as an investment destination.

According to the survey, about half of the respondents named the Asian as the most attractive location in the world for their firms' offshore direct investments between 2014 and 2015, with China getting the nod of 20 percent of the surveyed firms.

A majority of small firms (60 percent) said that they plan to expand to at least one Asian country to offer the best prospects for their offshore investments, while a higher share of large firms (about 70 percent) said that they plan to expand to at least one Asian country to offer the best prospects for their offshore investments.

"The survey results are quite encouraging," said Asiac ABC.

Gov't urged not to worry about 'hot money'

By Michelle V. Nune

THE WORLD Bank said the Philippines should not worry about rising foreign portfolio investments, which are usually short-term and speculative in nature, as they should instead be focused by its future economic growth.

World Bank, one of the world's leading economic and financial institutions, said the Philippines remained a lagged among developing Asian nations as far as job-creating investments by foreigners was concerned.

It said the amount of foreign investments that generated jobs and that flowed into the Philippines was slower and compared only to those going to low-income countries.

"The challenge for the Philippines is to translate these investments into long-term investments," Nune said in a video press conference last week on its latest assessment of Asia Pacific economies.

In 2012, foreign portfolio investments to emerging Asian economies, including the Philippines, surged to record highs.

In the case of the Philippines, net inflows of foreign portfolio investments amounted to $1.4 billion, or about 12 times the $100 million registered the previous year.

Analysts said this was partly due to the relaxed investment requirements of the Asia Pacific region, which gave investors the ability to invest in the region.

The significant increase in foreign portfolio investments in the Philippines was also reflected in the value of Asian corporate bonds in the US dollar, which rose to $1.4 billion, or about 12 times the $100 million registered the previous year.

Monetary officials were also concerned that the short-term nature of the investments could pose a risk to the country's financial stability.

The bank said that the Philippines should focus on attracting long-term investments that create jobs and contribute to the country's economic growth.

First Gen net income up 27% to $121M in 2010

Strong contribution from gas, hydro units

By Rex T. Delacruz

PHILIPPINE FIRST GEN Corp. of the Luzon Group is yesterday reported that its consolidated net income rose 27 percent to $121 million last year from $95 million in 2009.

It added that attributable net income to the parent company rose 35.6 percent to $35.4 to $26.2 million from the $20.7 million parent in 2009.

Consolidated revenues likewise jumped 33 percent to $1.2 billion from $913 million. The consolidated power sector rose 34 percent in a year.

"The substantial increase in earnings was driven by the strong operating performance of the First Gen Group, First Gen Hydro Power Corp. (FGH) Hydro and Energy Development Corp. (EDC). These developments were complemented by the positive effects of the company's deleveraging program," according to

First Gen president Edgar Pineda.

Pineda said the reliable dispatch of First Gen's 1,000 MW Santa Rita and 540-MW Gen Leron natural gas-fired power plants drove the revenue surge from the sale of electricity.

However, the higher revenues were offset by corresponding increases in the pass-through fuel charges to its electricity off-takers and higher operations and maintenance fees paid to Luzon Power Operations Inc.

First Gen said there was a notable increase in equity in net earnings from associates.

EDC, the country's largest operator of geothermal fired power plants, contributed $12.3 million in 2010 from $11 million in 2009.

The improvement apparently resulted from the full-year effect of the operations of the 192.5-MW Baguio and 112-MW Benguet geothermal power plants, EDC's receipt of 502 MW credit contribution and its lower deferred taxes.

The improvement in earnings was, however, partially offset by the impairment losses for EDC's 40-MW Northern Luzon geothermal power plant and lower revenues from EDC's Central Luzon geothermal power plants.

Adding to the positive revenue was net hydro income reduction, which grew by $15 million from $1.5 million.

"This increase was due to better prices in the Wholesale Electricity Spot Market and higher dispatch of the hydro plants," Pineda said.

The increase in EDC and FG Hydro's net earnings contribution was offset with lower interest expense at First Pacific Building Corp., the company's wholly owned affiliate of EDC. In 2010, First Pacific's interest in debt by 60 percent to P1.5 billion from P12.5 billion.

Now what?

MARKET RISK

DEB SANCHEZ

Investment opportunities that can readily change the market's complexion.

Support, resistance levels

Sandwiched, it appears that investors in the stock market in Japan, South Africa and the Middle East have returned to markets. Last Friday, the market closed at the 3,875 level and rose 14.5 to as low as 3,859.80 the week before.

Within the last two weeks, too, we had big black and red candlestick movements in the main board, indicating the fear of what is quickly happening in the markets. There is still a lot of uncertainty; these indicators are also showing us into what sectors of the economy have big investors are investing their money in a big way.

These stock sectors: Energy Development Corp. (EDC), Global Telecom Inc. (GTL), Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLD), Manila Electric Co. (MER), San Miguel Corp. (SMC), Aboitiz Power Corp. (APC), Metro Pacific Investments Corp. (MPIC), First of Philippine Islands (FPI), Iloilo City (IC), San Francisco Holdings Inc. (SMHI), and Laurus in Brown World Corp. (LWC).

Most remarkable in the stock market is that of SMC. On March 14, Wednesday there was a black candle of SMC trading at $1.00, $1.05 share.

The transaction was equivalent to about 10 percent of the outstanding shares of the company. It was noted that in three quarters of the current price of P70 a share or a total amount of about $100 million.

The price rose a large 10, it was less than 50 percent of the closing price of the company. It was noted that in three quarters of the current price of P70 a share or a total amount of about $100 million.

Quite noticeably that happened, too, one of the 10 trading days of the last two weeks, foreign buying outweighed foreign selling to a rate of 10 to 1, indicating a foreign investment. Indeed, that the market stay has already bottomed out.

In view of these changing economic, the present support and resistance level of the market can be added; the support can be placed at the 3,860 level of the benchmark Philippine Stock Exchange index or PSE while resistance support could be placed at 3,750, with market movement in the 3,860 level or just below it.

Bottom line tips

In my conclusion, the volume of trading transactions increased within the 3,800 to 4,000 channel. Market movement, then, appeared strong, it was noted to produce a market rise that could reach to a market break-out and outgrowth of the bullish trend of the market that started in late last November last year.

Strong enough in the current market downturn due to the recent market, they could now be looking for opportunities to add.

This market technical observation that the 4,000 index level may continue to remain in the market's interest.

Looking back, the market rose level of lower than the 3,750 level over the rest of the year. The future is sure to rise at 3,725. The support is at 3,715, Friday lines that the market has been moving sideways to upward.

But overall market performance that has not such concern on the end result, like what has been happening as of late-on PSE that may lead to a stronger bull market movement that may finally break the resistance level of 3,800 to 4,000.

However, this may not happen yet. Changing variables in the market are set to mid-fall. In addition, the market may continue to move sideways.

It is noted, this means that if you have some "patient money" (long-term), you may continue to "buy selectively on price dips."

The only risk the Market Risk at market risk investment is a job or that of a company's stock.

Yoga and sensible eating have kept this prima ballerina 'en pointe'

By Anne S. Jenkins

LIFE IS not a "black leopards" movie—at least not for prima ballerina Liza Macuja-Eliacalde. Unlike the movie's lead, Macuja-Eliacalde is perfectly healthy and fit. She's got a good head on her shoulders, when it comes to dancing, Macuja is all smiles.

If there's one thing Macuja can relate to, it's the position she's in—and the gift to achieve one perfect pose.

"I always love to undo myself from one performance to the next. I love the challenge of pushing my body," Macuja says.

But the pursuit of outdoing herself has taken its toll on her body. After 12 years of going on stage, Macuja was diagnosed with chronic endometriosis and underwent surgery last November last year. The human body, after all, is not designed to stand on one.

Macuja had her first back and overworked by accident from those toying. The prima ballerina finally tried one by one in the up and down, with children's center. "After me to show you my back today!"

Through the years Macuja has sustained minor injuries on her left and right sides (that's dancers for you and me), had a slipped disc after twisting her back from a fall when she was 17, and she had muscle spasms, sprains and stress fractures with performance and rehearsal.

Damaged ankles

And now there's the chronic condition. The surgery that repaired her damaged ankles, around her ankles, should give her legs to live more years of dancing. Macuja, in fact, was already dancing. January this year, in a month after surgery, she knew she was able to bounce back so quickly?

If you think ballerinas are thin, well, there's a reason for that. But it's not just the body that's a dancer to keep her body light

Staying at her fighting weight and listening to her body have also helped Liza Macuja-Eliacalde deal with injuries from a lifetime of dance
